- Automate the detection of axons in zebrafish microscopy data with convolutional neural networks in TensorFlow

- Experiment with modifying network structure, rotating cells and parameter testing to improve performance

- Achieve 95% classification accuracy

- Present poster and oral presentation at symposium to professors and students at Pittsburgh Supercomputing Center